

Memorial Day parade Monday

When it comes to pageantry, there are few groups that can top the Shriners. Wilmington residents will have an opportunity to see all the marching units of the Aleppo Temple of Shriners in the Memorial Day parade on Monday.

The parade starts at Wilmington Plaza at 10 a.m. Youth groups will join in the parade at the Wilmington House of Pizza. The parade then continues along Main Street to Church Street, to Middlesex Avenue to the Wildwood Cemetery.

Memorial exercises will be conducted in the Soldiers' Lot of Wildwood Cemetery, beginning at 11 a.m. The exercises will be conducted by Fred Shine, commander of the Disabled American Veterans Post 106, Elmer Parker, commander of the Veterans of Foreign War Post 2458 and Les Gauthier, commander of American Legion Post 136.

Memorial Day observances will begin on Sunday with a memorial service at the First Baptist Church at 11 a.m. Representatives of the three veterans' organizations will make the rounds of parks and memorials in Wilmington during the afternoon, rededicating the memorials.

Trump card

Planning Board Chairman Anthony Gentile held a trump card at the town meeting, but he chose not to use it. Gentile had the legal description necessary to reduce the area to be rezoned to general business, under the article before the town meeting. He made no motion to change the article, though, saying that it would negate the agreement with Ben Ristuccia.

Ice rink wins at town meeting

Wilmington's proposed ice arena got a green light Monday night, when the special town meeting voted 285 to 69 to approve the necessary zoning change.

The article approved by the town meeting changes the zoning of a 13.5 acre parcel behind McNamara Tire from residential to general business. As passed, the article incorporates the wording of an agreement between the selectmen and Ben Ristuccia, owner of the land.

One significant change was made in the wording of the original article. As originally printed, the article read "for construction of an ice rink and no other use." The motion read by Al Reidy eliminated the words, "and no other use."

Moderator Michael Cairns said he would allow the change, since the phrase would not be a legally enforceable condition on the rezoning. He did call the change significant, saying that he was not pleased having the motion changed from the article.

Town Counsel Alan Altman gave some background on the matter, citing a case between Sylvania and the City of Newton in which disallowed "contract zoning." He also said that the agreement between Ristuccia and the selectmen was not what he would have written, but that it could serve as the basis for a "constructive trust." Could he win a case on the agreement? He did not know.

Joel Ristuccia represented his father at the town meeting. He gave a recent history of the property, which his family had purchased for the Wilmington AMC dealership. After the town meeting turned down rezoning the parcel last fall, they had purchased Bridges' gas station, giving them the needed frontage for the dealership. The back land then became surplus, so to speak.

He said that they were considering developing it for residential land. Rocco DePasquale approached them with the problem of the North Wilmington ice arena closing. Ben Ristuccia then decided to build an ice rink for the town.

Joel Ristuccia said that there was no ulterior motive behind the offer. "There's no curve ball in there on our part," he said.

There were several speakers who spoke in opposition to the rezoning. Some were neighbors, concerned about possible flooding. Other people expressed concerns over the traffic. Others wanted to know what Ristuccia would do with the rest of the land. And would the town be liable for any shortfall the arena might have?

One person wanted to know why the entire 13.5 acres was being rezoned. He asked if anyone could provide an

Money awarded for housing after building is transferred

Wilmington was awarded a $450,000 grant for housing last week. But what should have been a story of good news was one of bad news. The grant was for converting the Buzzell School to congregate housing and last month, the town meeting voted to turn the Buzzell School over to the Council on Aging.

The Mass. Executive Office of Communities and Development (ECOD) awarded the grant as a part of a $27 million housing program, the first such awards in three years. Wilmington has not built any housing for the elderly since 40 units were constructed at Deming Way in the 1950's.

The Wilmington Housing Authority (WHA) in early April submitted three applications to the ECOD, one for conversion of the Buzzell School, one for adding 40 units to Deming Way, and one for a project near Lucci's Shopping Center.

The Buzzell School had been awarded to the WHA in the 1981 annual town meeting. Because there was no money available, the school has sat empty. Earlier this year, the Wilmington Council on Aging submitted a warrant article seeking to take over the Buzzell School as a drop-in center for senior citizens. The council has been seeking a new location, because of crowded conditions in the present drop-in center at Wilmington Plaza.

The town meeting passed the article overwhelmingly, taking the school away from the housing authority.

The ECOD was never notified of the town meeting vote, and made the award to the WHA assuming that the housing authority still had the building. Seeking to award as few units to as many communities as possible, the ECOD selected the Buzzell School proposal, which was for eight units of congregate housing, and two units of family housing (Ch. 705) to be located on other sites.

Septic system backup closes school for a day

With Wilmington officials already up to their chins in septic problems at the Shawsheen School, the last thing they needed was a septic system backup at another school. But that is what happened Tuesday morning at the North Intermediate School.

The North Intermediate problem, while serious enough to close the school for the day, turned out to be a simple repair. A float controlling a pump had corroded, causing the septic tank to overflow.

The problem was repaired the same day, and classes were scheduled to resume on Wednesday. The septic system was completely rebuilt about five years ago. The float which corroded, said Public Buildings Supt. Roy McManahan, was copper. A stainless steel float mechanism has been ordered, he said.

Meanwhile, the septic system at the Shawsheen School continues to be of concern to both parents and teachers. The system's leaching field has been failing for some time. In mid-April, it reached a crisis stage, and the pump in the septic tank had to be shut off. Since then, the level of sewage in the septic tank is monitored daily, and pumped out by a contractor when necessary.

A sewer line had been proposed for Lake Street, to serve the school. That idea was rejected, first by Lake Street residents who would bear the cost of the sewer line under the betterment act, then by the annual town meeting. A Shawsheen Avenue sewer has been proposed, but is a long-term project.

The selectmen last week met with school committee members, parents, and the school principal. The group pressed for — and received — assurance that the repairs would be made to the septic system.

At a meeting on Monday afternoon, the Wilmington Board of Health said that the school was safe, as long as the tank was pumped regularly, and as long as everyone did what they were supposed to do. The board also ruled that unless the septic system is rebuilt, the school could not reopen in September.

The system will probably be rebuilt by then, barring complications, said Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski. He called the situation "crisis management." Last summer, accounts had to be stripped to provide money for asbestos removal, he said. This summer, the accounts were again being stripped, this time for the septic system.

Parents told the Board of Health that two students had been hospitalized because of illness. Chairman Domenic Tutela said that while he was concerned, he said there was no way to prove that the illnesses were a result of the septic system problems.

Selectmen are scheduled to meet with the School Committee next Wednesday night, to determine if any money from the school budget can be transferred for the repair of the septic system. A line item in the budget just passed in town meeting last month included $65,000 for septic system and roof repairs. Of that, $30,000 is slated for repairs to the roof of the Wildwood School. The other $35,000 will be used for the septic system at the Shawsheen, but a total of $80,000. When the budget item was passed, town officials were hopeful that the Lake Street sewer would be approved, eliminating the need for more expensive long-term repairs.

Nutrition course offered at Regional Health Center

With food costs continuing to rise and with evidence that meat has been shown to increase the risk of heart disease and cancer because of the fat and cholesterol content, the Regional Health Center in

Wilmington is presenting "Protein Power: Save Money on Your Meat Bills."

This will enable area residents to learn to cook delicious, meatless dishes which provide necessary nutrients and are economical. The course will be held Monday, June 4 from 7 to 9 p.m. presented by nutritionists Marilyn Pasierb, R.D., M.S. and Pam Swan, R.D., B.S.

Protein is essential in daily nutrition, according to Marilyn Pasierb, because it builds and repairs body tissues, helps form antibodies to fight infection and supplies energy.

Protein has traditionally been supplied in the American diet by sources including red meats, eggs, milk products as well as fish and poultry, most of which are high in fat and — or cholesterol.

Americans are now faced with a challenge — that of keeping food costs down and eating foods that keep the body healthy and possibly have a protective effect against chronic diseases such as cancer and heart disease.

The nutritionists at "Protein Power" will demonstrate how to prepare several tasty, low-cost, high quality protein dishes using food combinations such as beans, legumes, tofu, seeds and grains. Emphasis will be placed on combining these protein sources to equal the protein found in meat, eggs and dairy products while decreasing fat and calories. Vegetable protein sources are also high in dietary fiber which has been linked to lowering incidence of bowel cancers.

Participants will have the opportunity to eat a meal prepared during the course. Recipes and handouts on protein will be provided. Shopping ideas will be presented for saving money while maximizing nutritional value of foods.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. Nutritionists at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington are also available for individual nutrition counseling for weight control problems, cancer, diabetes, anemia, eating disorders (anorexia, bulimia), high cholesterol, high blood pressure or hypoglycemia.

Stutman to address Chamber of Commerce

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly meeting on May 29 with a luncheon at Rocco's Restaurant at noon.

Guest speaker for this month's meeting will be Robert M. Stutman of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency. His topic will be Drugs in the Workplace. Wilmington's Police Chief Bobby Stewart and Officers Robert Shelley and Robert Spencer have also been invited to attend.

Since 1979, Mr. Stutman has served as Special Agent in charge of the Boston Divisional Office of DEA. In this capacity, he has overall responsibility for enforcement of all federal drug laws in the six New England states and coordination with the eastern provinces of Canada.

It was through the efforts of Mr. Stutman, working with the Wilmington School Committee, which resulted in the strong drug and alcohol policy which was recently adopted in the Wilmington school system. Recognizing that drug problems are not unique to the school children of the town, Mr. Stutman will take this opportunity to give insight to the business community on what resources and options are available to them when the problem presents itself.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting will be accepted from the membership until Friday, May 25 by calling the Chamber office at 657-7211.

CLOCK TOCK

by THE CLOCKFOLK OF NEW ENGLAND

Wilmington

Electric clocks have been around longer than most people realize. The first patent for a clock driven by electricity was filed on October 10, 1840, by a Scotsman named Alexander Bain. Bain's early principals utilized the swinging pendulum and kept it in motion by an electro-magnet energized by a battery. The force of the electro-magnet upon the pendulum disk provided a constant swing as long as the battery's energy remained constant.

Many experts for the next 80 years condemned electric clocks as too troublesome and too uncertain to come to extended use.

In 1918, Henry Warren of Ashland, Mass. invented his synchronous motor. Its constant speed was due to the 60 cycles delivered in an ordinary alternating electric light current. His motors were made popular under the name Telechron, and were installed in countless millions of electric clocks and other devices.

The same idea of using the electric alternating current is used today in most modern electric clocks. And many battery clocks with swinging pendulums are made today which utilize the very same system Alexander Bain invented over 140 years ago.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz, Stu and Fred:

Now that I've had the opportunity to settle back to the earth again, I'd like to thank the Good Guy Committee for this superb award and those people who took the time to nominate me.

St. Augustine said: "The sufficiency of my merit is to know my merit is insufficient." So it is with this fine recognition bestowed on any recipient. It's not an end, but should represent a new beginning; a renewed sense of commitment to continue to be active in the community and strive to become worthy of such an honor.

To be a member of such an excellent group of people is an overwhelming and humbling experience, however, I'd like to accept this prestigious award on behalf of all those wonderful people in our town who haven't been recognized or nominated yet and day after day continue to work to make Wilmington a fine place to live in. In their behalf, I thank all those involved with the Good Guy Award.

Cordially,
Ken Spinelli

Dear Larz:

I have been a resident of Wilmington for the past seven years. I attended my first town meeting on April 28 to get involved in what is happening in the town. The more I read the Town Crier, the more I realize I wasted my time.

For instance in the Town Crier on May 16, I read with great interest an article regarding the septic system at the Shawsheen School. The town officials don't know where the money will come from to fix it. At the town meeting the selectmen and town manager voted for a decrease in the school budget since the high school renovation was passed. It was brought to their attention that the money they wanted to cut could be used to replace the septic system at the Shawsheen School which would cost $80,000. The townspeople were told that the town had $35,000 to fix it temporarily. I would like to know what happened to the $35,000.

At the town meeting we were told that a water treatment plant would be built in North Wilmington no matter what the vote was on the rezoning of the water department land on Route 125. Now I have read in the Town Crier on May 9 that a special town meeting is needed for the voters to decide whether they want the treatment plant. The rezoning of the land will also be brought up again at a special town meeting. Why do we attend town meetings to vote on articles of interest if they are only to be brought up again and again at special town meetings until the town officials get the vote they are looking for?

Needless to say, I've lost all faith in the people who are supposedly looking out for the town's welfare.

Priscilla Carpenter,

The church celebrated its 250th anniversary last fall, too late for tree planting. In front, at left, Christine Stephens and Millie Ann Cavanaugh. Tewksbury art exhibit celebrates 250th anniversary

To celebrate the town's 250th anniversary, Tewksbury's Patten Public Library is currently displaying the works of several local artists who have depicted historical scenes in Tewksbury.

The exhibit includes paintings of the North Tewksbury Baptist Church, the Ella Flemings

School, the bandstand in the center and several of the oldest homes in town. These works will be on display until May 26.

Educational Update

By Dr. Carol Sager
Wilmington Superintendent of Schools

To those of us who remember preparing 180 peanut butter and jelly sandwiches during the course of the school year and never (Heaven forbid) letting the mashed potatoes touch the peas, "You are what you eat" takes on a familiar ring.

How would you like to plan and serve nutritious meals to 2000 youngsters daily? That's what Anne M. Quinn, Wilmington's cafeteria director and head of school food services does. In addition she is responsible for maintaining the elderly feeding program for nearly 80 senior citizens, both "Meals on Wheels" and on-site feeding at the West Intermediate School.

Good nutrition has a definite effect on health, growth and learning. The school lunch provides one-third or more of the daily nutrient needs of the student at a low cost. The school food service director's responsibility involves not only the menu planning to provide this nutritional need but has the added responsibility of maintaining a cost-effective program even with reduced subsidies from the federal and state governments. The school lunch program in Wilmington is totally self-supporting, receiving no monies from the town or school department budget, including paying the salaries of all its staff of 35 women on a full or part-time basis and 10 substitutes, almost all Wilmington residents.

To assist in the cost effectiveness of the program, the United States Department of Agriculture distributes surplus commodities to the states and the local school lunch programs. Once the commodity foods are received by the school, it's then necessary to find different ways to use the product. In Wilmington, tacos are a great hit as well as turkey dinners, both ground beef and turkey being a government commodity, when available, which helps to keep the cost of lunches down.

The Wilmington School Lunch Department also gets involved with the teachers by helping to provide nutrition education materials during the year. The school lunch department this year has been a part of joint teaching ventures with the reading department during the Rainbow Summer Reading Program by having rainbow ice cream to culminate the program in the fall. It also provided the dinner for the Medieval Fair of the West Intermediate School and has been a part of many of the PAC groups, putting on programs or being available to speak on nutrition.

Legislators and local dignitaries have been involved in the lunch program by being invited to National School Lunch Week and enjoying lunch with the students. Parents have also been involved by having them enjoy a school lunch with their children.

The principals of the elementary schools have always been most supportive in introducing the kindergarten children to the school lunch program in June in preparation for September.

Research has shown the students who participate in school lunch programs are better nourished, more consistently attain the nutrient requirements prescribed by the required dietary allowances, and tend to be more alert and better disciplined students.

Wilmington has an excellent school lunch program thanks to Mrs. Quinn and her staff, servicing approximately 66 percent of the children for hot lunches, while state average is 48 percent, and servicing 95 percent of the school population in some capacity, milk, dessert or a la carte. It is one of the few programs that touches nearly every child, every day of the school year and is an integral part of the educational process.

Walking through the cafeterias at lunchtime it's a pleasure to hear, "I'm starved, I can't wait for lunch. Good! Pizza today!" and I've never once heard "Don't let the mashed potatoes touch the peas."

Wilmington school notes

One of the most important duties of any school committee is to assure that the community it represents is kept well informed of the actions of the school committee. The actions of a school committee are the concerns of the public; conversely, the concern of the public is the impetus for the actions of the school committee. Without open lines of communication between the school committee and the people who elected its members, there is a danger that a school system may lead in a direction that is not to the satisfaction of the people who pay the bills.

In Wilmington there is general agreement among school committee people that the public is to be kept as well informed as possible. Public budget meetings, public candidate interviews and open meetings are just a few ways people can keep abreast of the actions of its school system. The philosophy of the Wilmington School Committee is to chart a course that is beneficial to the children and harmonious to the taxpayers, and parents of Wilmington.

Parents and taxpayers are always welcome at a meeting of the Wilmington School Committee. Meetings are always posted in the town hall noting both the time and location. Generally, the school committee meetings are held on the second and fourth Wednesday of every month. Additionally, most meetings are held in the Roman House on Church Street.

The Billerica American Irish Club is to appear before the Tewksbury Board of Appeals on May 29, at 8:15 p.m. The club is seeking a special permit. It seeks to conduct a picnic this summer at Hazel Field off Livingston Street, as they had done last year. The application was the subject of discussion at the Tewksbury Planning Board meeting Tuesday night as the planners were voting their recommendations on board of appeals cases.

Planning Board member Joseph Doherty was strongly in favor of a special permit, and at the same time he called the proposal "a sticky thing."

Doherty told the other members that he attended the event last year. There were, he said, 17 thousand people present and the organization "did a heck of a job."

The problem, the planning board members agreed, was that the building inspector had complained about the tents. Events, such as the one proposed, seem to run into problems in Tewksbury, it was said.

Member Bob Fowler remarked that the firefighters are transferring the site of their annual Jerry Lewis carnival to Wilmington this Labor Day. There are, he said, too many regulations in Tewksbury. The Wilmington firefighters will cooperate, and the carnival can be held at Wilmington Common.

The recommendation for approval was 3-0 with members Lambert and Donovan voting.

Elm Street case

The planning board voted unanimously to recommend approval of a division of one lot of land on Elm Street into two. The land has two homes and is owned by Carl and Vera Ebinger. The proposal is to make one lot of 13,000 square feet and another of 13,260 square feet, each with a house on it. There would be only 59 feet of frontage for one lot, facing Elm Street.

There are other problems too, having to do with insufficient space according to the zoning bylaws. The planning board was almost ready to disapprove until Joseph Doherty pointed out that the houses and the property were there before there was a zoning bylaw.

On motion of Bob Sullivan the board approved unanimously.

Main Street business enlargement

The board voted non-approval of an appeal for enlargement of a building at 1619 Main St. due to expanded business. The zoning is general residence and farming, and light industrial.

The non-approval was voted for lack of information.

Erica Lane case

Erica Lane, a private street, was discussed with the result that the board voted to recommend that any transfer of land, such as is proposed, should mean that the transferees "put in the deed" that the town is not to maintain the street. There is a $2,000 performance bond on the area at this time. George Donovan was of the opinion that the owner might establish proper conditions, which the board of appeals could possibly approve.

Kingston Road case

An appeal for land on Kingston Road was not, the planning board felt, on proper conditions. The claim was that there was financial hardship.

The board voted to recommend denial.

Recommend approval for metal barn

The board voted to recommend approval of the proposed construction of a metal barn, for property located at 920 Livingston Street. The proposed use is storage of farm equipment, on a lot of 54,450 square feet.

Airport restaurant plan

A proposal to construct two restrooms and add a small addition to an existing dining room at the Tewksbury Airport did not meet with the planning board approval.

Swimming pool case

The planning board voted no recommendation because of a "lack of information" when it discussed a proposal for a swimming pool, to be constructed at 279 Trull Road, (new and old Trull Road). It was not clear what was being proposed, in the front or in the rear yard.

Water Street case

No recommendation was voted on a case for a lot of land at 80 Water Street. The owners seek to divide, the board was told. A lot of 40,000 square feet, and a lot of 17,000 square feet is desired, and it is believed the owners seek to provide themselves with a mortgage.

Sheehan's Pharmacy case

There was no recommendation voted, on a proposed variance for the property where Sheehan's Pharmacy is located near Tewksbury square. George Donovan recorded himself as not voting.

Sheffield Road case

Likewise there was no recommendation on a case involving land on Sheffield Road. In this case Bob Sullivan recorded himself as not voting.

Hillside Road case

The last case discussed was an appeal for property on Hillside Road. There is new Cluster Zoning in the neighborhood. The board was told that the building was too close to the street. The planning board voted no recommendation, with both Sullivan and Donovan not voting.

Fire training

Firefighters graduate from training academy

Two Wilmington firefighters have graduated from the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy's seven-week Recruit Firefighting Program. Gary J. Donovan and Richard Hughes were both appointed to the Wilmington Fire Department in 1983.

The training program, which is offered free to municipal firefighters in the Commonwealth, is designed to provide new firefighters with the basic skills necessary to insure their effective performance in their jobs.

The graduation exercises held at the Academy's headquarters in Sudbury on May 4 marked the conclusion of an intensive and in-depth program for all students. While the students' primary concerns were learning the basic firefighting skills during this time, they were also introduced to some more advanced topics, which will be more important as their careers progress. These included public fire education training, hazardous materials, and stress management.

Students receive classroom training in all areas. Training is then given in the basic firefighting skill areas, such as ladders, hose, and protective breathing apparatus. The classroom training is reinforced by performing practical field evolutions, first under non-fire conditions, then during controlled fire conditions. By graduation, students have had practical, hands-on experience with live fires in buildings, vehicles, and flammable liquids, having fought these fires as effectively and as safely as possible.

Due to a series of retirements and promotions, several new recruits have been named to the Wilmington Fire Department during the past year. Firefighters Donovan and Hughes are the first of these to graduate from the Academy. The other new recruits will also complete the training program.

Marksmanship: A-plus, math: F

There are, today, Minutemen companies, such as the Wilmington Minutemen; Militia companies, such as the North Reading Militia and other companies such as the British Tenth Regiment of Foot or other British organizations. They all love to re-light the American Revolution.

On the 19th of April television viewers saw the battle of Lexington Green being fought over, and British slaying Americans. In other towns, from time to time battles are re-enacted.

The North Reading Militia hosted such a battle recently, on North Reading Common. Among the guests was a company from the Continental Line of the U.S., coming from a New Hampshire town.

Six British Redcoats came marching across the common, in stiff British attitudes. The four Continentals knelt on the common, took aim, and fired.

All six British fell down dead. That's what you call marksmanship.

Corporate headquarters is in Wilmington, with additional divisions and distribution centers in Mansfield, Mass., Hartford and Stratford, Ct., Westbrook, Me. and Manchester, N.H.

Redmen display future power

The TMHS varsity boys' track and field team lost to Central Catholic on the scoreboard, 48-97 last Wednesday, but at the same time served word for the next few years that they would be a power to be reckoned with. With many freshmen, sophomores and juniors displaying outstanding efforts, the future is bright.

The Redmen complete their dual meet season today (May 24) when they host their perennial rivals, Wilmington, in a 3:30 p.m. meet at the Tewksbury track and field facility. Friday those boys not competing in Saturday's State Meet will participate in the annual MVC League Meet, which will be hosted by the Tewksbury boys and girls track and field teams in Tewksbury. Meet starting time will be 3:30 p.m. Saturday several members of the team will compete in the Class C State Meet to be held at Oliver Ames High School. The season officially ends Tuesday, May 29, when the Tewksbury freshmen and sophomores compete against the Central Catholic freshmen and sophomores at the Tewksbury track and field facility at 3:30 p.m.

Central Catholic 97
Tewksbury 48

The extremely talented Central Catholic team came to Tewksbury and left with a highly competitive 97-48 victory. Sophomore Mark Cristoffels of Tewksbury put on an awesome display of jumping prowess as he won both the long jump, 19'4" and the triple jump, 41'6 1/2", for personal bests.

Sophomore Doug Noyes won the discus with a 119'1" toss, while sophomore Ed Piscopo continued to mow down his opponents in the 880 yard run with another impressive time of 2:05.8. Kent Appleby was the other Tewksbury winner, taking the high hurdles in an 18.3 time. Other scorers were as follows:

Sophomores Mike Goodine and Joe Roscillo, second and third in the high hurdles; freshmen Kenn Coviello, runnerup by only one-tenth of a second in both the 100 yard and 220 yard dash; junior Steven Murphy, second in the mile with a personal best 4:42 time; talented 440 yard man Rich Lapham, second in a tough quarter mile race; Kent Appleby, second in the 330 yard low hurdles with a personal best time; Mark Cristoffels, adding a third in the 220 yard dash to his two wins in the jumps; freshman Robbie Busch, who ran an excellent personal best in the two mile run; junior Steve Voto just missed clearing 9'6" in the pole vault which was the winning height, finishing third due to more misses at a previous height; and junior Jim Field, who took a third place in the high jump.

The mile relay team, although they did not win, ran an extremely good time of 3:39.3, as Steve Murphy, Ed Piscopo, Rich Lapham, and Paul McSweeney gave the team its best performance of the season.

Although not running for Tewksbury, two members of the Central Catholic team from Tewksbury also gave excellent performances in several events. In the field events, Gregg Kobelski won the high jump with a leap of 5'10", while Steve Sledz finished second in the javelin, 143'6", and third in the triple jump, 35'7 1/2". In the running events, Kobelski took a third place in the 330 yard low hurdles.

TMHS girls continue charge

The Tewksbury High School girls' track team continued its winning ways during the past two weeks by knocking off Haverhill and demolishing Dracut. Especially noteworthy has been not only the continuing superior performances by the seniors on the team, but also the fine contributions being made by the ever-improving juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

In a cold drizzle - the kind of weather the girls have to endure for almost every one of their meets - Tewksbury triumphed over a tough Haverhill squad, 67-51. Beverly Luken, as has become her custom, won three events going away. She took the long jump with a 15'8 1/2" leap, the 100 yard dash with a 12.3 clocking, and the 220 with a 27.5. Kathy Weisensee had to settle for second place in the high jump, but she came back in the mile to outrun Haverhill's outstanding Kim Bresnahan and achieve a 5:31.5 time. This excellent mile time would have been good enough for the school record, except for the fact that Kathy had run a blazing 5:27 against Lowell earlier in the week. With these preformances Kathy became the number one miler in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Eileen Griffin continued to prove that she is one of the league's top javelin throwers, as she won the event for the fourth time this season. Pia Romano also continued to establish her credentials as the top discus thrower in the conference by taking the event with a solid 100'9" heave. Chris Silk ran a strong race to take second in the 880, and Julie Bernardi and Teresa Forsyth took thirds in the 440 and two mile to complete the seniors' contribution to the victory - a total of 39 points.

Meanwhile, freshman Nancy Menezes was throwing 92'6", the finest throw ever made by a freshman at Tewksbury High, to take second in the discus, and 30'6" to win the shotput. Nancy's future in these two events is a bright one indeed, since her distances already place her near the top of the conference. Tracy Meehan, a junior, continued her fine progress in the hurdles by running 17.59 to take second place, and sophomores Jennifer Rogers and Rene Juchnevics took thirds behind Bev Luken in the 100 and 220. Renee also threw well enough in the javelin to take second place.

Chris Blake, another outstanding freshman, really came into her own in the Haverhill meet by running a fine 66.6 in the 440, good enough for a second place. Peggy Forsyth, a sophomore, began to find her high jumping form and leaped 4'8" to take third.

A few days later in an 87-31 romp over Dracut, the TMHS girls continued to show their consistency and depth as well as improvement by the underclassmen. Nancy Menezes got off a tremendous throw in the discus, 98'2 1/2" to take first. This could well be the best throw ever made by a freshman in the entire conference.

Junior Fran Mulrain took up a new event, the long jump, and sailed to 14', good enough for third place. Fran also took second behind teammate Kathy Weisensee in the two mile and came back with a fine 65.7 clocking in the 440 to win the event.

Freshman Sue McLaughlin returned to the lineup after being ill to run a fine mile race - her first time ever in the event - and take a third place behind teammates Julie Bernardi and Teresa Forsyth with a fine 6:18 time.

Sophomore Peggy Forsyth once again high jumped well and then ran a 2:42 half mile race to take second behind a powerful 2:33 race being run by senior Chris Silk. Sophomore Debbie Holden ran a fine race in the 100 to take third.

Shriners Football Classic June 23

'Strong legs run so weak legs can walk'

Two of the top high school football coaches in the state, each with an unbroken string of victories, will face each other on June 23 when they head up opposing squads in the Sixth Annual Shriners High School Football Classic. Kickoff is at 7 p.m. with pre-game activities starting at 6:30 at Boston College's Alumni Stadium, Beacon Street, Chestnut Hill.

Tewksbury High School tackle Tom Ogden (6'1, 195) will be one of the participants in this year's contest.

This year's game, co-sponsored by the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association and the Shriners of Aleppo Temple in Wilmington, pit Natick's Tom Lamb, with a winning streak of 23 games and two Division I Super Bowl titles, against Winthrop's Bob DeFelice, boasting 33 straight wins and voted 1983 New England High School Football Coach of the Year.

Sparks will fly as 88 of the most outstanding young athletes from 75 Eastern Massachusetts communities meet on the field in a contest between North and South squads that will decide which coach will add to his string of wins and which will taste defeat.

But it's all for a good cause - the young patients facing their own personal challenges in Shrine hospitals for burned and crippled children - so there are only winners in this contest. In order for these youngsters to be treated completely free of charge, proceeds from the game go to the Shriners Burns Institute in Boston, the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Springfield and the 19 other burned and orthopedic units throughout North America.

Leading each blue chip team are two coaches who are champs in their own right. South squad Head coach Tom Lamb has a winning streak of 23 consecutive games, has won the Division I Super Bowl two years straight and has coached the phenomenal Flutie brothers, Doug, Darren and Bill. He says of the Classic: "It's a great game, for a great cause, with great kids who are talented, competitive - and real gentlemen."

Bob DeFelice of Winthrop, voted New England High School Football Coach of the Year, heads up the North squad, and has an unbroken string of 33 victories to his credit, with many of his players never experiencing defeat in a high school football game.

The rivalry between these two outstanding coaches injects an extra element of competition into an already exciting game.

Assisting Lamb with the South team are Dennis Bren of Millford, George McCabe of Xaverian, Carlin Lynch of Dartmouth and Jim Mitchell of Oliver Ames.

Coaches joining DeFelice's North squad are Winchester's Manny Marshall, Joe Lukis of Wayland, Pete Ambrose of Cardinal Spellman and Fitchburg's John Dubzinski.

All coaches are selected by the Massachusetts High School Football Coaches Association executive board from nominees elected by each league in the state. The players are chosen for both their scholastic and athletic abilities and are selected by the Association from league all-star or newspaper all-scholastic rosters.

Since the first game in 1979, originally conceived by Game Director Jim O'Connor, Athletic Director at Catholic Memorial High School (and then president sponsor; Sweetheart Plastics, subsidiary of Maryland Cup Corporation; John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company and Coca-Cola Bottling Company of New England make the game possible. As in past years, Converse will again provide athletic footwear, t-shirts and socks to players, coaches and trainers. Coca-Cola will present awards to the players.

Thanks to the support of the coaches, players, sponsors and fans, the Classic has become a successful fundraiser for the Shrine hospitals. In the five short years of its existence, over $110,000 has been raised, with optimistic expectations by General Chairman and Past Potentate Ed Johnston that this year's "game of champions" proceeds with top past figures.

In addition to the game, halftime activities will also be

Coaches Association President Paul Costello says of the game: "We're proud to be able to help the Shriners carry on their important work, while at the same time helping young athletes. Girls' track from page 12

Lori Nunziato and Kim Marshall, other promising freshmen, have run very good times in the 880, mile and two mile. Kim was able to take third against Dracut with her effort in the two-mile, and Lori took third against Haverhill in the 880.

At this point in the season the TMHS girls have compiled a 6-1 record and are in second place in the Merrimack Valley Conference. There remain meets against Wilmington and Methuen, two teams that have given Tewksbury a great deal of trouble in the past. The Wilmington meet will be at Tewksbury this afternoon (May 23) at 3:30. Methuen will come to town for the final dual meet of the year on Wednesday, May 30.

These meets will be the last high school contests for the seven seniors who have accomplished so much for Tewksbury over the past three years. Anyone who has followed TMHS girls track might want to come to the track for one of these meets to see 'the magnificent seven' in action one more time. Those seven standouts include Beverly Luken (100, 220, 440, long jump); Kathy Weisensee (high jump, mile, two mile, 880, 440); Teresa Forsyth (mile, two mile, shotput, javelin); Chris Silk (880, 440, mile); Pia Romano (discus, shotput); Eileen Griffin (javelin, shotput) and Julie Bernardi (880, 440, mile).

The Wilmington Recreation Department will sponsor a lifeguarding course for those previously certified with Red Cross Advanced Lifesaving. This course presents an opportunity for those previously qualified as Advanced Lifesaving to upgrade their certification.

"Lifeguarding" is already the standard for most other regions of the U.S. It is anticipated that this course will become mandatory for any one lifeguarding in New England in the near future. Lifeguarding is also recommended as a physical training course for anyone who will be employed as a lifeguard or pool manager this summer. The course will begin on Sunday, May 27 from 2 to 6 p.m. at the Shawsheen Tech pool. The course will run for six weeks and will cost $25.00.

For more information or to enroll, call the Recreation Office at 658-6512.

Each session will last two weeks, with each swimmer receiving an hour of instruction every day, Monday through Friday.

Additional swim time will be held at the Tech pool. Cost is $20 per swimmer, with a maximum of $40 per family. Requirements for each course are: Beginner - a child must be between the ages of six and 10 years of age; advanced beginner, ages seven through 11 who have their beginner card or can swim doing the crawl stroke for 25 yards; intermediate, ages eight through 12 who have an advanced beginner card or can swim 50 yards, dive and tread water for three minutes; swimmer, ages nine through 14 who have intermediate card or can swim 300 yards and tread water for 10 minutes; advanced lifesaving - ages 15½ and over that have all of the above requirements or can swim 500 yards and tread water for 10 minutes.

It is a 2:15 game. The bus will leave WHS at 1 p.m. Out-of-town owners are welcome on a space available basis. Call 658-6512 for more information.

Beach cleanup

Saturday, May 19, members of Troop 58 out of St. Dorothy's tackled the litter problem at the town beach on Silver Lake. Armed with rakes, shovels, brooms and litter buckets, scouts under the supervision of Ron Swasey, Recreation Director, made some good progress on this recurring problem. Those scouts who deserve some thanks are: Steve Finnerty, Tom Sweet, Eric and Mark Zizis, Jay Murphy, Pete Holoman, Frank Cenca, Chris Delmeio and Larry Flynn.

The cleanup was followed by a canoe clinic by Rick Barry and Ron Swasey. Highlighting the clinic was the presentation of a new St. Maurice canoe to the Recreation Department by Custom Line Products of Ballardvale Street, Wilmington. Bob Knoettner, owner of the company, was present to donate the craft.

It joins the Recreation Department's fleet which is used for rental and lessons during the summer. Scout and church groups also have made use of the town's canoes.

Big one got away

Breen Salem State MVP

Tewksbury's Eddie Breen, a four year letter winner who scored 40 goals and added 76 assists for 116 career points as a center iceman at Salem State College, was recently named Most Valuable Player for the 1983-84 season at the Annual Varsity Club Athletic Awards Banquet held at the close of the academic calendar year.

A member of four Massachusetts State College Athletic Conference (MASCAC) championship teams and four ECAC post-season tournament qualifiers, Breen tied for the team scoring lead last winter with 14 goals and 14 assists for 28 points. His 14 goals topped the Vikings in that department.

Says his head coach Bill O'Neill: "Eddie was the most underrated forward in Division Two. He sacrificed his scoring abilities in order to help out in the defensive zone. He did everything that was asked of him and even more."

Eddie is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred P. Breen.

As many as 30 area softball teams are expected to participate in the 1984 Bud Light Easter Seal Softball Marathon to be held from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. June 16 at Memorial Park, Tewksbury and June 23 and 24 at St. Louis and Gage Fields in Lowell.

"It promises to be one of the Merrimack Valley's biggest Easter Seal events ever with what we expect will be a record number of teams entering," said Rick Hanson of D.J. Reardon Co., distributor of Bud Light, who will serve as chairman of the marathon.

Registration is open to both organized and pickup teams. Minimum entry donation is $200 per team, for which each team receives two cases of Bud Light beer and a game trophy provided by Converse, a local co-sponsor.

For teams turning in higher amounts of money, additional prizes are available. T-shirts are given to teams raising $250 or more; tube socks to those turning in $400 or more; softball caps to teams raising $600 or more and Bud Light bottle opener - key chains to teams raising $800 or more. Teams turning in donations of $1,000 or more win a team dinner at a local restaurant, including Bishop's.

Managers of teams raising $500 or more receive an athletic, carryall duffle bag as well as being eligible for a statewide drawing to win a 35mm camera from Claus Gellote, a Sony Watchman Television, dinners for two and other prizes.

Hanson emphasized that marathon proceeds will go to help fund swimming programs, stroke clubs, recreational camping and rehabilitation services for children and adults who are disabled.

Anyone wishing to register a team in the marathon or those seeking additional information should call the Lawrence Easter Seal office at 683-1259 or the 24 hour Bud Light Easter Softball Marathon Hotline at 682-2423.

Reading Light generating a list of generators

The Reading Municipal Light Department is preparing a sort of "emergency list" of generating facilities, within the town of Wilmington. So Buzz Stapeczynski told the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors last week.

The list is being prepared in case the RMLD needs some extra power, because of any incipient emergency situation, via a vis power from the electric sources of New England. In effect there would not be much input, but if a situation did turn up where everyone was turning on air conditioners or such, and some more power was desperately needed for a short stretch of time, the RMLD might know of some sources.

Stapeczynski brought up the subject when he said that the two electric generators in the Browns Crossing pumping station could supply a little power. Reading wants to be ready to use any sources of power in Wilmington if needed.

Stapeczynski was present to discuss electric power possibilities for Wilmington. For some months there has been some dissatisfaction in Wilmington because this town, which uses 60 percent of the electric power from RMLD, has no input as to the decisions of the Reading Municipal Light Board.

He had been talking, he said, with representatives of the New England Power Pool. The effect of these discussions was "minimal," he said. NEPower is not interested. None of the utilities want to have any individual towns as a customer because they do not want to get into fights. He had talked with both NEPower and Boston Edison.

He described his relationship with Norbert Rhinerson, manager of Reading Light as pretty good, but his relationship to the Reading Light Board is a different thing.

The board, he said, is pretty difficult to deal with.

"They (the board) are active. They know what they are talking about, but at no time were we in a participation process."

There is a sentiment on the part of some that Wilmington should have a representative on the RMLD board, because of the power that Wilmington uses. This would not be in accordance with the acts of the state legislature, which set up the Reading Municipal Light Department back about the turn of the century. The department is owned by the Town of Reading, and Reading voters, and those voters can only vote for members of the Reading Municipal Light Board.

This was discussed by Stapeczynski, who told the Chamber of Commerce that Wilmington should make the RMLD realize "we have concerns."

Reading Light, he said, has lower rates that can be expected from Boston Edison. The residential rate is 8.55 cents a kilowatt hour. The Boston Edison residential rate is 9.39 cents.

On the other hand Stapeczynski said that the power rates for industry and commercial establishments do not have the "step" savings of other light sources.

Stapeczynski was seconded, in a fashion, by Nicki Johnson, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, who recently attended a meeting of the RMLD board of directors.

"They laughed at me, when I attempted to speak." "They don't want to spend any time with us."

Nicki conceded that the Reading Light has very good service for Wilmington. No one in Wilmington, she said, "will dispute that fact, but, if the power charges of Reading Light drive industry to leave Wilmington, as it well might in a few years, that's when the whole thing will come home to roost."

Wilmington police news

Wilmington police made three arrests on May 18, Friday evening, on the power of outstanding default warrants issued by other police departments.

Brian Armstrong, 26, of 508 Woburn St., was arrested by Officer Mark Jepson on a Billerica motor vehicle warrant. Donald P. Doyle Jr., 25, of 34 Marjorie Road was arrested on a Malden warrant charging violation of the controlled substances act. A third arrest by Officer Jepson was Joseph Cangiamila, 22, of 39 West St. He was arrested on two warrants, one by the State Police of Andover and one by the Cambridge Police Department.

Early Sunday morning Officer Chris Neville arrested Harold S. Davis, 20, of 319 Andover St., Wilmington. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, endangering, failing to stop for a police officer, possession of a Class D substance, plus other offenses. Davis was bailed for a Monday court appearance in Woburn, at which he had his case continued to June 6.

Trail bikes. The police department is being inundated with complaints about kids and trailbikes. There are regulations that apply:

Trailbikes are not allowed on streets, nor on private property without the permission of the owner. Despite the young age of the operators it is often necessary to tow the bikes and cite the operators when violations do occur.

Another problem is mopeds. It is illegal for them to be driven on the streets, but the operator must have a driver's license or a learner's permit. They must be at least 16 years old. They must obey all driving regulations.

There were 11 complaints to the police department in the past week about trailbike operations.

During the week of May 15 - 22

The Reading Municipal Light Department is preparing a sort of "emergency list" of generating facilities, within the town of Wilmington. So Buzz Stapczynski told the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors last week.

The list is being prepared in case the RMLD needs some extra power, because of any incipient emergency situation, via a vis power from the electric sources of New England. In effect there would not be much input, but if a situation did turn up where everyone was turning on air conditioners or such, and some more power was desperately needed for a short stretch of time, the RMLD might know of some sources.

Stapczynski brought up the

Wilmington police news

Wilmington police made three arrests on May 18, Friday evening, on the power of outstanding default warrants issued by other police departments.

Brian Armstrong, 26, of 508 Woburn St., was arrested by Officer Mark Jepson on a Billerica motor vehicle warrant. Donald P. Doyle Jr., 25, of 34 Marjorie Road was arrested on a Malden warrant charging violation of the controlled substances act. A third arrest by Officer Jepson was Joseph Cangiamila, 22, of 39 West St. He was arrested on two warrants, one by the State Police of Andover and one by the Cambridge Police Department.

Early Sunday morning Officer Chris Neville arrested Harold S. Davis, 20, of 319 Andover St., Wilmington. He was charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol, endangering, failing to stop for a police officer, possession of a Class D substance, plus other offenses. Davis was bailed for a Monday court appearance in Woburn, at which he had his case continued to June 6.

Trail bikes. The police department is being inundated with complaints about kids and trailbikes. There are regulations that apply.

Trailbikes are not allowed on streets, nor on private property without the permission of the owner. Despite the young age of the operators it is often necessary to tow the bikes and cite the operators when violations do occur.

Another problem is mopeds. It is legal for them to be driven on the streets, but the operator must have a driver's license or a learner's permit. They must be at least 16 years old. They must obey all driving regulations.

There were 11 complaints to the police department in the past week about trailbike operations.

During the week of May 15 - 22

subject when he said that the two electric generators in the Browns Crossing pumping station could supply a little power. Reading wants to be ready to use any sources of power in Wilmington if needed.

Stapczynski was present to discuss electric power possibilities for Wilmington. For some months there has been some dissatisfaction in Wilmington because this town, which uses 60 percent of the electric power from RMLD, has no input as to the decisions of the Reading Municipal Light Board.

He had been talking, he said, with representatives of the New England Power Pool. The effect of these discussions was "minimal," he said. NEPower is not interested. None of the utilities want to have any individual towns as a customer because they do not want to get into fights. He had talked with both NEPower and Boston Edison.

He described his relationship with Norbert Rhinerson, manager of Reading Light as pretty good, but his relationship to the Reading Light Board is a different thing.

The board, he said, is pretty difficult to deal with.

There is a sentiment on the part of some that Wilmington should have a representative on the RMLD board, because of the power that Wilmington uses. This would not be in accordance with the acts of the state legislature, which set up the Reading Municipal Light Department back about the turn of the century. The department is owned by the Town of Reading, and Reading voters, and those voters can only vote for members of the Reading Municipal Light board.

This was discussed by Stapczynski, who told the Chamber of Commerce that Wilmington should make the RML realize "we have concerns."

Reading Light, he said, has lower rates that can be expected from Boston Edison. The residential rate is 8.55 cents a kilowatt hour. The Boston Edison residential rate is 9.39 cents.

On the other hand Stapczynski said that the power rates for industry and commercial establishments do not have the "step-savings" of other light sources.

Stapczynski was seconded, in a fashion, by Nicki Johnson, president of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce, who recently attended a meeting of the RMLD board of directors.

"They laughed at me, when I attempted to speak." "They don't want to spend any time with us."

Nicki conceded that the Reading Light has very good service for Wilmington. No one in Wilmington, she said, "will dispute that fact, but, if the power charges of Reading Light drive industry to leave Wilmington, as it well might in a few years, that's when the whole thing will come home to roost."

The growing business of baseball cards

By DOUG BOYLE

STONEHAM — Remember those baseball cards that you would run down to the corner store everyday and buy for a nickel?

You would feverishly open the package, pop the gum into your mouth, and then examine the prize that you won and figure out how you could get your best friend to trade his favorite card for the doubles that you received.

Well, you started to grow up and the cards went into a shoe box and eventually got thrown away to make room for more important things.

Anything that only cost a nickel could not be that important anyway, right? Wrong!

At Bill's Place (which has just moved from Stoneham to Haven St., Reading) if you still had it you could find that a 20 year-old Pete Rose card would be worth as much as $20. A particular rookie card of Mickey Mantle is worth over $1,500. He has one collection of one year that's worth $8,000.

An early Yastremski could go for as high as $65. These prices are a far cry from the nickles and dimes that you used to spend as a kid.

As a matter of fact the business is so active now that people like Bill Carvalho are able to make a living by owning stores that deal mostly in the trading cards alone.

Carvalho, owner of Bill's Place, said, "I deal in any kind of sports memorabilia."

He went on to note that 90 percent of his business does consist of baseball cards.

Carvalho has made the trading cards his business for the last five years and for three and one-half of those years he has been in the Stoneham location.

Although there will be a closed sign on the shop next week do not let it bother you, Carvalho needs the time to prepare for the move to his new and larger space at 231 Haven Street in Reading.

Like most of us, Carvalho collected as a youngster. However, as his interest waned the cards got thrown out and other interests took over.

That is until 1969 when he was living in New Jersey.

According to Carvalho, "My wife went to a flea market and bought a whole collection of cards. It just snowballed from that."

To go into Bill's Place does not mean that you're going to have to part with a lot of money either.

Steven McKenzie of North Reading noted that he only spends about $20 per week at the store.

As the Caldor's employee said, "I take a little bit out of my paycheck every week and set it aside for Bill's Place."

According to Carvalho many times a lot less than that is spent. "Some people come in just to talk sports," he explained.

"Sometimes," Carvalho admitted, "I would rather talk sports than sell. I have to draw the line."

Carvalho who has been written up in a national trade magazine is also knowledgeable about his hobby and business.

He pointed out that the oldest baseball cards are from the 1890s and were put out by chewing tobacco companies.

The tradition was carried on by cigarette companies until the 1920s.

When chewing gum companies first started producing the cards, according to Carvalho, one of the biggest was the Goudy Gum Company of Boston.

Around 1956 until 1980 the Topps Company had a monopoly on the cards and then the Flair Corporation and Donruss re-entered the field.

Although the cards have a long history Carvalho calls collecting "one of the newest hobbies."

He explains this by saying that, "It has come up in popularity by leaps and bounds over the past five years."

Carvalho noted that five years ago there were five shops like his in the whole country, and now he claims "There are five in a ten to fifteen mile radius."

"The business," according to Carvalho, "is big enough for its own directory."

The growth in the business has been good for the hobbyist also because although there is no national association there is a price guide book call the Sports Americana Baseball Card Price Guide.

The editors of the guide, Denny Eckles and Doctor James Beckett, survey dealers including Carvalho as to what the going prices are for certain sets or single cards.

What are the going prices? The cards that used to cost a nickel or dime with a piece of gum can now be worth as much as $200 to $300 for a complete set of the 1972 or '73 series.

Even those packages in the corner store have gone up to 30 cents apiece.

This has not diminished the popularity according to Carvalho who notes that 60 percent of his customers are still under 16 years old.

Carvalho also admits though that about 90 percent of his income is from people over 21.

While this may be so he also points out, "I try to have all my cards priced, and I give the same price to all my customers whether they be eight or eighty."

Although Carvalho's shop is a one man operation he does receive help from his wife Claire, and his five children ranging in age from 14-24, none of whom are collectors.

Carvalho does note with pride that his four year old grandson is holding up the tradition and becoming a collector.

Another bonus of shopping at Bill's Place is that when you visit, it might seem that some of the cards have come to life.

Carvalho reports that he is visited by people such as current Red Sox batting coach Walt Hriniak and former Sox player Rico Petrocelli.

Name these 24 players and win a $25 restaurant gift certificate

So you think you know your oldtime baseball stars. Well, here's your chance to prove it. Identify the players in the card replicas and you could win a $25 restaurant gift certificate. The entry with the earliest postage date and with the most correct names wins.

The rules are simple. Just take a piece of paper and match the number on the card with a correct name, there are 24 in all. Some of them are extremely easy; some of them are extremely tricky; some of them will be very hard. We doubt anyone will get all 24 correct. So, why not have some fun and give it a try. Just send your entry to P. O. Box 240, Reading, MA 01867. The winner will be announced next week.

We are very thankful to Bill Carvalho for allowing us the use of his cards. His selection was huge and we hope you find the quiz both challenging and fun. We'll give you a couple of hints. One of them was the only man ever to pinch hit for Ted Williams. And another is the first black ever to play for the Red Sox. Have fun!

FM TALK: Our far-flung correspondent is on special assignment this week, so until he returns here is another addition of his offbeat tidbits on American history:

I recently read where Richard Nixon at the age of twelve reportedly told his mother, "I will be an old-fashioned kind of lawyer, a lawyer who can't be bought."

The Watergate scandal was not Richard Nixon's first experience with break-ins. As a senior at Duke University School of Law, Nixon broke into the dean's office to find out his class standing. Only for this break-in Nixon was never punished. By the way, Nixon graduated at the top of his class.

Nixon has always boasted that writing "Six Crises," his first bestseller, was one of his most rewarding experiences. The truth of the matter is he never really wrote the book. Well, not entirely. The book was actually ghost-written for the most part by a fellow by the name of Alvin

School Alert Program helps epileptics

WAKEFIELD — Knowing that a child's first seizure could occur in the classroom, the Epilepsy Chapter of Wakefield has set up a School Alert Program to help children, their parents and the School Department, especially the teachers, to better understand what Epilepsy is about.

Over the years, in our annual "Color Benjamin" Essay Contest for third grade students, the Chapter has given 30 $50 Savings Bonds to the winner at his or her school. Benjamin is a comic book story of a third grade boy who has his first seizure while reading in class. The teacher tells the children that Benjamin has Epilepsy and goes on to tell them what Epilepsy is.

The 9:29ers Banjo Club will be appearing in a concert in the Wakefield Junior High School Auditorium Friday, June 1 for the benefit of the Epilepsy Chapter of Wakefield School Alert Fund. Showtime is 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the Countryside Deli on Salem Street, Montrose Restaurant on Salem Street, Golden Harvest on New Salem Street, Smith's Drug Store on Main Street, Leo's Restaurant on Main Street, Greenwood Pharmacy on Main Street, 7-11 on Albion Street, Li'l Peach on Lowell Street, DiMinico's on Water Street, Convenience Store on Elm Street, High School Student Council members and the K. of C. of Wakefield. Also, Reliable News on Salem Street.

The 9:29ers Banjo Club consists of almost 30 men, representing all walks of life, all ages from 20 years on, a dozen communities in the Wakefield area, and a dozen different churches.

The Club puts on a varied program of music, featuring, of course, the banjo; but also including guitars, mandolins, bass, Hawaiian guitar, as well as some vocalists and specialty acts. The audience is assured of an unusual evening of lively music, and an opportunity to hear a group that, so far as is known, is the only one of its kind in the entire country.

The Club originated in Wakefield in the spring of 1956, and has since played for over 400 performances in northeastern Massachusetts. Its range has also included as far as Concord, N.H., Maynard, and West Dennis on Cape Cod.

Starting with five men in 1956, it has since grown to its present size. Its members receive no monetary benefit from it, but are held together by ties of music, fun, and fellowship. Any funds accruing to its treasury are used for expenses of the Club; and over the years has been donated to many worthy causes including scholarship funds, library music programs, and many of the well known charities.

Due to the great success and popularity of the Club, bookings must be made well in advance; in fact, to get a particular date, it may be necessary to plan at least a year ahead. However, if arrangements can be made with Club personnel, there's always room for one more worthy cause.

Early childhood safety

Accidents are the number one killer of children under the age of 14. A child's world, a home filled with love and security can also be a potential threat to his or her health and safety. To young explorers, home can become a potential hazard zone filled with enticing but dangerous new colors, textures, tastes and smells. With a little bit of information and encouragement, parents and people who work with children can do a lot to help prevent childhood accidents.

The Mystic Valley Council for Children invites all interested citizens to attend a free evening forum on "Early Childhood Health and Safety", with Stephanie L. O'Neill, R.N., at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday, May 30. The forum will be held at the First Congregational Church, 21 Church St.,

Winchester.

Mrs. O'Neill comes well qualified to highlight concerns most often raised by parents and providers during many trainings she has given as Chairperson of Nursing Services for the Cambridge Region of the American Red Cross of Massachusetts Bay. As an early childhood health and safety specialist, she has been on T.V. talk shows as well as local cable T.V. programs.

Head lice, a national problem and common illnesses such as fever, ear infections and Chicken Pox will be talked about.

For more information, please call the Mystic Valley Council for Children office, located in Winchester, 729-4350.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Middlesex Editor:

The Rosboroughs attended the first reconvened session of the Vision Task Force which was held at the Department of Public Health, 150 Tremont Street, Boston, in the third floor Conference Room. The reconvened Task Force pertaining to the updating of the Massachusetts Public Schools Vision Screening testing met under the direction of the Perinatal, Pre-School, and School Health Service Unit, of the Department of Public Health.

Kathrine Messinger, Unit Director, presided over the meeting aided by Muriel Fraker, Director of Hearing and Vision Services.

The multi-disciplinary team of professionals consisted of a teacher, who also represented the Friends of the Sensorially Deprived, Inc., a Department of Education Representative, three Developmental Optometrists, three ophthalmologists, one who represented the National Society for Prevention of Blindness, and a Trainer of School Nurses. The agenda included introductions of Task Force representation, review of previous Task Force activities, recommendations for revision of school age screening components, recommendations regarding frequency of acuity, screening tools for pre-schoolers, research re screening tools and need for near point screening.

The second Task Force meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 13, from 3:00 to 5:00 P.M.

Three cheers that the Vision Task Force has been reconvened! However, if you are a parent, you should be aware that the Vision Screening will not be corrected for over a year. In the meantime, parents can screen their children themselves. Write to the FSD, Inc., P.O. Box 186, Belmont, Ma. 02178, and include a self-addressed and stamped envelope together with a donation for their article "Eye Problems". You do not have to be a parent to screen a child.

Roving

Moscow, Nixon did, however, write the final chapter, which focused on his 1960 presidential campaign. In Nixon's familiar heavy-handed style, the chapter turned out to be the longest in the book.

Nixon was once questioned by a reporter at a press conference on the state of his health. Nixon replied that his health was excellent and that he had never had so much as a headache in his whole life. Although this columnist can't be certain, it is likely that Nixon's remark came before the discovery of the Watergate break-in.

I was recently thumbing through an old New York Times magazine article entitled "A Low-Level Memoir of the Nixon White House," by Douglas Hallet. Mr. Hallet also had the knack of picking up on some of Nixon's asinine comments. Like the one he made one time to an injured policeman who was waiting for an ambulance to arrive: "Now do you like your job?"

This beaut also appeared in Mr. Hallet's article: Speaking at the funeral of French president Georges Pompidou, Nixon noted, "This is a great day for France."

From the "What's that again?" department: You may recall Ron Ziegler, who was Nixon's press secretary and spokesperson during the Watergate crisis. Mr. Ziegler appeared before a roomful of reporters shortly after the break-in, and declared, "If my answers sound confusing, I think they are confusing because the questions are confusing, and the situation is confusing and I'm not in position to clarify it."

Enough poking fun at Mr. Nixon. Let's turn our attention to some other president. Say, Harry Truman. Did you know that Harry Truman insisted upon washing his own underwear?

The Middle East was no less confusing thirty-five years ago. During a crisis in that year, U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Warren Austin made a plea before the general assembly, calling for Arabs and Jews to settle their differences "like good Christians."

The term "Veep," short for vice-president, was coined by the ten-year-old grandson of Alben Barkley, who served as vice-president under Harry Truman. Incidentally, Barkley was the last vice-president born and raised in a log cabin.

The term "wherryism," which is another word for malapropism, was coined by the colleagues of Nebraska Senator Kenneth Wherry, who constantly twisted words during speeches before the Senate. One of his most famous twisted phrases was "Chief Joins of Staff," referring, of course, to the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's mother was a devoted pacifist. She refused to allow Dwight, as a boy, to read books about war, taking them away from him when she discovered him reading them and reportedly hiding them in the attic.

While on the congressional campaign trail Lyndon Johnson was known for whipping off his expensive Stetson and tossing it into a crowd. The gesture was all for show, however, since he would pay someone in advance, usually a small boy to whom he would give a dollar, to retrieve the hat.

"Roosevelt proved a man could be President for life; Truman proved anybody could be President; and Eisenhower proved you don't need to have a President." — Republican Senator Kenneth Keating.

Make is a safe holiday weekend, and see you next Wednesday.

century. This witty, insightful play follows Fuller's dynamic, colorful, and often tragic life as she wrestles with her literary "muse" — and her longing to find a man who will consider greatness and genius in a woman "not an entirely eccentric reason for lust."

RHODODENDRON

The Massachusetts Chapter of the American Rhododendron Society is having its Annual Rhododendron Auction on Sunday, May 27, at the Suburban Experiment Station, 241 Beaver Street, Waltham.

The auction will be combined with a flower show and small sale of perennial companion plants. The flower show competition is open to the general public and entries must be at the Station by 9 A.M. at the latest. There will be lectures and demonstrations about rhododendron growing beginning at approximately 10:30 with the plant sale about an hour later. The auction shrubs (400 plus) will be available for viewing from 9:30 to 12:30. The auction will begin promptly at 1:00 P.M.

The Massachusetts Chapter holds meetings at the Experiment Station and has a Display Garden at the Case Estates of the Arnold Arboretum on Wellesley Street in Weston, Massachusetts. The Chapter is an educational non-profit organization which relies on this annual auction to cover its regular operating expenses.

RE-ENTRY

To assist women who are interested in returning to the workplace after a 5, 10 or 15 year absence, Middlesex Community College's Division of Continuing Education-Community Service is presenting a free workshop, "Re-entry Into the Job Market." With opportunities expanding for women in the world of work, knowledge of these career opportunities is important as a first step for women to take as they embark on this new venture.

Through a panel presentation, this workshop will provide information on careers and employment outlook for the late 80's. Resources for counseling, training and internship programs will be reviewed.

A key element in this workshop will be a Job Readiness Assessment which will be distributed to the participants who will rate their work values and then examine the importance of these values in seeking appropriate new careers. To further clarify their work goals, they will analyze their need for a career change. These tools will provide the women with the start of a game plan as they begin the job search process.

Serving as panelists will be staff and faculty of Middlesex Community College's Community Services: Barbara Sherman, Director; Esther Rosenman-Hochman, Career Counselor; Barbara Rubin, Coordinator and Joanne Morgan, Internship Developer for LIVE Program.

The re-entry workshop will be held on Thursday, May 31, from 10-12 noon in Building 5, North Campus in Bedford.

For further information, call Barbara Rubin, at 275-8910, ext. 291 or 298.

FOLK FIDDLING

Cat's Fiddle Productions and the Harvard University Folklore Department are very pleased to present Johnny and Phil Cunningham, former members of Scotland's premier traditional band Silly Wizard, in concert at Paine Hall, Harvard University, on Friday, June 8th, at 8:00 p.m.

Johnny, who has been called "probably the world's finest folk fiddler" by the Boston Globe, and Phil, who is an equally impressive master of the accordion, have been playing the music of Scotland since they were small children. Each on his own can create in an audience jaw-dropping astonishment at the multitude of moods and tones he can coax from his instrument; together, performing a combination of traditional music and their own compositions, they are sheer dynamite. For further diversity, Phil occasionally adds cittern, guitar, or whistle to Johnny's fiddle.

Johnny has played frequently in the Boston area, both as a soloist and with Phil as part of the group Silly Wizard. This will be the brothers' first appearance here as a duo, and it is likely to be a sellout event. Tickets are $6 in advance or, if available, $7 at the door, and can be purchased in Cambridge at Sandy's Music, 896A Mass. Ave., or the Music Emporium, 2018 Mass. Ave. For more information, please contact (617) 492-8341.

SCOTS' PICNIC

On June 2, at the Sheraton Inn at Boxborough, Mass., Scottish Arts, Inc. will present a Scottish Picnic.

For many years, Scots in the Greater Boston area enjoyed a gathering where they could hear the skirl of the bagpipes, watch highland dancers, and meet with each other in the old Celtic manner. Scottish Arts, Inc., a non-profit group dedicated to the preservation of the Highland Heritage is reviving that tradition with its Scottish Picnic.

There will be a Highland Dancing Competition, and a solo Bagpipe Competition beginning at 9 a.m. and continuing all day until 5 p.m. The dancers are competing in 16 classes for trophies and medals and the pipers are in five grades with several events in each grade.

At various times during the day, the top prize winning pipe band in the United States, The Worcester Kiltie Band (Worcester, Mass.) led by P-M James Kerr will perform. Ed Pearlman, fiddler (Newton, Mass.) will be performing also with his group.

Scottish merchants will have their wares on sale and the Sheraton Inn will have traditional Scottish foods and beverages available.

General admission is $4.00 for Adults, $2.00 for children 6-12. Advance tickets, $3.50 and $1.75 may be ordered directly from Scottish Arts, Inc., 45 Border St., West Newton, Mass. 02165.

CARMEL CLUB

The Carmel Club for Widows and Widowers will hold a dance and

An air-conditioned bus will depart from the Wentworth parking lot at 550 Huntington Ave. at 6 p.m. on Friday, June 22. The group will stay at Briarwood Mountain Lodge for the weekend.

Further information about the expedition may be obtained from Judy Marinelli, Wentworth Institute of Technology, 550 Huntington Ave., Boston, Ma. 02115, telephone (617) 442-9010, ext. 211.

If you haven't already done so, why not enroll in one of the upcoming courses sponsored by the American Red Cross, Eastern Middlesex Region. The life you save may be that of someone close to you!

The following is a list of scheduled courses being offered in the Eastern Middlesex Region: Standard First Aid Lecture — Tuesdays, June 12 — July 10, 7 to 10 p.m.; Melrose; CPR-Lecture — Tuesdays, July 17 and 24, 7 to 10 p.m.; Melrose; CPR-Lecture Saturday, June 9, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Melrose (one-day course); CPR-Review — Thursday, May 24, 7 to 10 p.m.; Malden (current card required); Advanced Lifesaving — Thursday, June 24, 6:30 — 9:30 p.m.; Wakefield.

The business of baseball cards

Reading local John Doherty, who played for the California Angels in 1974, is also known to stop by. (Bill even has his card.)

If hockey is your sport to talk about, then you might be lucky enough to come in when John "Pie" MacKenzie is around.

Not all of the award winners are on the cards in his shop either, as Carvalho himself has been preselected with a Sponsor Appreciation Award from the Stoneham Youth Hockey Association.

Besides hockey Carvalho also sponsors local softball teams and has conducted seminars on collecting in local schools.

Of this last interest Carvalho says, "Some kids just pay attention to price, but we're seeing enough kids who like the cards for themselves."

Carvalho does not necessarily buy all the cards that are offered to him even if they are popular. "Sometimes I talk guys into keeping their cards," he said. "Instead of making one deal I have made a customer. He gains and I do too."

Carvalho also has several cards that he won't sell you either as they are a part of his private collection.

This includes a Mickey Mantle worth $1500 and a 1952 Topps set that's only missing 18 of the high numbers.

If you have one of those eighteen cards come on down, if you don't, come in anyway, but if it's just to talk or look around, beware you might get caught up in the excitement.

There's a shortage of hygienists

The job market for dental hygienists this Spring is quite rosy for there are more positions available than hygienists to fill them.

Dr. Ralph R. Lobene, dean of Forsyth School for Dental Hygienists, spoke about the shortage at a meeting of Greater Boston Guidance Assn., organization of guidance directors, at Forsyth last night.

He told the guidance directors that Forsyth's Placement Office has more than 150 unfilled full and part-time positions for dental hygienists. This is an increase of 100 percent over last year.

Dr. Lobene attributed the shortage to several factors. First, he said, dental insurance has become the fastest growing new employee benefit. At the end of 1982, 92,500,000 million employees were covered by prepaid dental insurance compared to 3,500,000 in 1965.

Secondly, dentists are doing well. He cited an American Dental Association source which stated that the average annual income of dentists has increased from $48,363 in 1978 to $55,000 in 1982. The increased activity in the dental practice and the prepaid dental insurance have a positive impact on the demand for the utilization of dental hygiene service. The employment situation in Massachusetts is obviously reflecting this positive trend. The healthy job situation is providing the hygienist a variety of choices of employment. Dr. Lobene said hygienists may work from one to five days a week, choose between general and specialty dental practice as well as public health settings. There are also career opportunities in education and research for hygienists as well as geriatric centers where there is an unmet need for dental care.

Dr. Lobene also outlined the new Bachelor of Dental Hygiene degree which Forsyth will inaugurate in September 1984. This new post-certificate program is designed to prepare licensed dental hygienists for advanced positions in administration, community service and industry as well as research and education. This new bachelor program, as well as the present two year Associate degree program, is conducted in conjunction with Northeastern University.

Prior to the dinner, the guidance directors toured the Forsyth facilities which include Forsyth Dental Center, one of the largest oral health research centers in the world. The hygienist school is the largest and second oldest in the country. Forsyth is a non-profit institution.

John DeLorenzo of Arlington Catholic High School and president of the association presided over the dinner meeting. Maryann Hurley of Somerville High School annex is secretary-treasurer of the association.

The great blue heron stands four feet tall and has a wingspan of more than six feet, yet weighs only five to eight pounds, notes National Geographic.

Know your Social Security rights

Anyone has the right to be represented by the person of his or her choice in dealings with the Social Security Administration, Dover C. Crawford, Social Security district manager in, Malden said recently. There are a number of rules governing the use of such representatives, however. Essentially these rules are designed to protect the claimant's interests. The representatives may or may not be an attorney, but cannot be a corporation or organization. The appointment of the representative must be in writing. If the person is not an attorney, he or she must state his or her name and indicate that he or she is accepting the appointment.

In most cases, a representative cannot sign an application for the claimant. Also, he or she cannot charge or collect any fee without first getting written permission from Social Security to do so. The fee may be requested and authorized even if the claim is denied. If the representative is an attorney, Social Security can pay him or her from money in back benefits due. If the claim is denied and the representative is not an attorney or the claim is for supplemental security income (SSI) the claimant must pay him or her directly, but only after Social Security has approved the fee in writing.

Only the Social Security Administration or a court of law can decide the fee a representative can charge. Any contract the claimant may have signed is not binding. Both the claimant and the representative will get a notice of the decision on the fee. If the fee is decided by a Court, the law provides that it cannot exceed 25 percent of past due benefits.

Social Security will treat a representative as it would the claimant; he or she will receive the fullest cooperation in representing the claimant's interests at every stage of the prosecution of the claim.

Anyone with questions about how to get adequate representation should call any Social Security office. In addition, a booklet entitled, Social Security and Your Right to Representation can be obtained free of charge.

The Malden Social Security office is located at 200 Pleasant Street. The telephone number is 227-2400.

Career Services offers hope for older unemployed

Looking for a job at any age can be a difficult task, but older workers often face special problems.

To respond to the needs of an increasing number of job hunters who are 45 or older, Career Services offers a support group for older workers with recent work experience.

Participants in the group meet Mondays, 9:30 — 11:00 a.m., to share information, ideas, resources and contacts.

Group leader is Persis Blanchard, a former Director of Career Services with over 25 years of work experience. Mrs. Blanchard currently serves as a Career Counselor and as Employment Supervisor at Women's Educational and Industrial Union.

"Graduates" from the group have found employment with a variety of businesses and nonprofit organizations, including Houghton Mifflin Co., Norton Company, Beth Israel Hospital, Keane Inc., Katharine Gibbs, Epsilon, Inc. and the City of Quincy. As one member said, "It made me keep at my search each week in a professional way."

Half of the members in the current group are men.

Career Services at W.E.I.U. is a member of the Operation ABLE Network System. As a division of Careers for Later Years, Inc., ABLE (Ability Based on Long Experience) works to provide businesses access to a pool of experienced, capable employees.

For more information about the "Support Group for Older Workers" or Operation ABLE, contact Career Services, Women's Educational and Industrial Union, 356 Boylston Street, Boston, Ma. 02116. Telephone is 536-5651.

By ANTHONY MANCONI

No one knows the formula for success — but the formula for failure is to try to please everyone.

My humble thanks to Archbishop Bernard F. Law for his personal letter thanking me for the poem I wrote and sent to his mother, Helen Law.

I was taking a grandfather's clock to a Reading Square clock repair shop. I had it on my shoulder and as I turned to go into the shop, I accidentally hit a lady, knocking two parcels out of her hands. "I'm sorry, lady," I said, "please excuse me." "That's alright," she replied, "but tell me, why the heck don't you carry a wristwatch like everyone else does?"

An old railroad joke: "Head for the round house Nellie, he can't corner you there."

My family's summer cottage at Hampton Beach must have been built or owned by bootleggers. The foundation is 'stoned,' the walls are 'plastered,' the windows all have that 'panelessly' glazed look, and the steps 'stare' right back at me when I look at them. But I love the place — it keeps all of us in good 'spirits.' The cottage has a 'sunkn' living room where the termites have eaten away the supporting beam. It needs minor repairs: where the leg of the bathtub 'protrudes' through the kitchen ceiling; where there's a 'brook' on the property running through the cellar; and the beautiful 'patio' where the cement truck tipped over when the foundation was poured. When we bought the place it came with many extras left behind by very considerate former owners — like a worn out corn broom, three coat hangers and a broken mop handle — but with all its faults we wouldn't trade the place for a waterfront estate in Newport.

My wife came to me in a frenzy yesterday shouting, "Look at this lousy squirrel coat — do you expect me to wear it all my life?" "Why not," I asked, "the squirrel did!"

F. Lee Bailey could not have come up with a better answer when my wife asked me, "Where did these blonde hairs on this sport jacket you wore last summer come from?" "You ought to know, dear," I replied with a wry smile, "you were a 'blonde' last summer, weren't you?"

I attended a wedding that reminded me of my own. The bride looked 'stunning' and the groom looked 'stunned.'

My wife woke me up at two in the morning and told me she could hear a mouse 'squeak.' "So, what do you want me to do — get up and 'oil' it?"

My friend, Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington, told me that he wears the pants in his family — usually with an apron in front of them.

John Ridings, of North Reading, told me that he isn't in the least bit musically inclined but he does play 'second fiddle' at his house.

Adam and Eve were happy in the Garden of Eden because they didn't have a mother-in-law. Adam was born in the late afternoon — a little before Eve.

Many new cars come with built-in recording systems and tapes that tell the driver that the brakes are on, the seat straps are not in place or that the gas level is low. Well, my car has a built-in speaking system but doesn't talk to me — only to foreign-made clunkers at stop lights, saying, "By the Japanese who made you and the Ship Maru that brought you, your're no better than I am, Hunka-Tin."

Folks, gloss is a superficial luster, an external appearance that sometimes is artfully misleading, making one think it's a true representation of an inner glow. Charisma, however, is in fact the true and readily apparent external reflection of an inner glow. One of many I know who have charisma is Anne Carroll. She has the beauty of a Grace Kelly, the voice of a Jeannette McDonald and the personality of a Maureen O'Hara. When I first met Anne, it was like the sun bursting over the horizon brightening the day with her glorious sunny personality.

Howie Murphy came down with the chicken pox last week and the doctor ordered him to stay 'cooped' up for two weeks. Vinny Harrington visited him yesterday but had to be shooed out of the room — between Vinny's 'fowl language' and Howie's constant 'squawking,' it was enough to send anyone 'coo-coo.' Dennis Tully tried to cheer Howie up but couldn't (Dennis is 'henpecked'). The only one who added a little spark to a dull situation was Charlie White, a master electrician. He told Howie that Frank Perdue donated a 'wing' to a hospital in South Carolina to find a cure for chicken pox.

The direct opposite of my Aunt Maria's assessment of this column (and who also thinks I'm nuts) is that of Father (an honorary title) Robert Burns of Woburn, who thinks it's great.

Folks, we revolted because of England's taxation of the colonies 'without representation.' Well, what do we do now with taxation 'WITH representation' that's like a cobra's tightening and unrelenting force slowly but surely strangling the poor slob like me?

"How's your new secretary?" I asked my friend Brian McCarthy. "She's wonderful, except for her punctuation," I replied, "I know what you mean," I replied, "Mine is always late, too."

The Gardener

I wonder where the worms are as I dig and turn the soil? Where are the moths and beetles as my back breaks with toil? Potato bugs and gypsy moths I know you're here somewhere. You're just biding your time to give me a nightmare.

Then in the summer when everything starts to grow, The bugs and gypsy moths and some that I don't know, Pay their daily visit at night or in the morn, And eat my beans and lettuce and my golden yellow corn.

Sometimes I sit and wonder why I perform this yearly chore. Why don't I do what others do and buy at the country store? Communicating with Mother Nature is the answer, I guess. But I wish those demon insects would move to a different address.

Prepare for summer boating season now

Now is the time to begin preparations for the boating season. Though the weather may never come, it really won't be long before the water beckons with an irresistible call. What needs to be done for that first fine spring day? Here are some suggestions from the Coast Guard Office of Boating Safety.

ment that is not required by law but is required by good common sense? In particular, check your life preservers (PFDs) and fire extinguishers. Are they the correct size and types for the size of your boat and crew? When was the last time the fire extinguishers were serviced? Are they in good condition and useable?

seamanship? How are those navigation skills? Do you know how to cope with any emergency that might arise? If not, now is the time to acquire or brush up on those needed skills. Take a boating course from the Coast Guard Auxiliary, U.S. Power Squadron, Red Cross or state or local boating authority.

Don't put off what you can and should be doing to get ready for the new boating season. When the call of the sea is sounded be sure you and your boats are ready.

EXAMINE YOUR BOAT — Make any needed repairs. Check out all safety systems very carefully. Are all fasteners and catches securely in place? Now is the time to get the engine tuned and ready. Check for any hull damage from the winter lay-up or last fall's final outings.

EXAMINE YOURSELF — Are you completely familiar with all phases of small craft

Inspect your fuel system. Is it clean and lead free? How is the condition of your electrical system? Are there any frayed wires? Is the insulation in good condition with no cracks or splits? Don't forget the ventilators. They must be clear and free of obstructions and constrictions if they are to do their job properly.

EXAMINE YOUR EQUIPMENT — Make sure no equipment has been lost or mislaid. Do you have all the equipment required by the Coast Guard? How about safety equip-

MOVIE REVIEWS

'The Natural' and 'Firestarter'

"The Natural" starring Robert Redford, Glenn Close, Robert Duval, Kim Basinger, Wilford Brimley, Richard Farnsworth. Directed by Barry Levinson. Rated PG (violence).

What is the story with Hollywood these days? Can't anyone produce a movie any more that is sweet and innocent and happy without being condescending, cloying and overly symbolic?

As you have probably guessed, "The Natural" is a disappointment, and it shouldn't have been. The cast is star-studded, the costumes and sets are lovely, and it is very prettily photographed. But the missing link here is script writers Roger Towne and Philip Breen, who are trying to prove the theory that it takes connections, not talent to work in Tinsel Town. Of course, a lot of the blame must go to director Barry Levinson for his heavy-handedness and penchant for slow motion.

Although this story of a man's (Robert Redford) desire to be the best baseball player in the world is perhaps too hokey and mystical for adults, it does not deserve to be ranked below mediocre, mostly due to the fine performances and cinematography. Also, children old enough to be exposed to the short segment containing violence might enjoy "The Natural," as the symbolism will probably fly right over their heads, and it does have an inspirational theme.

"Firestarter" starring Drew Barrymore, David Keith, Martin Sheen and George C. Scott. Directed by Mark Lester. Rated R (profanity, violence).

In this corner is little Charlie McGee (Drew Barrymore), an eight-year-old who packs a surprising punch, she's a pyrokinetic, and can start fires simply by thinking about them.

In the far corner are the ruthless members of The Shop (Martin Sheen and George C. Scott,) a government agency that wishes to capture and study Charlie for their own rotten purposes.

"Firestarter," based on yet another book from the Stephen King factory, is a thriller that is psychologically frightening with horrifying moments. However, the special effects are terrifically over-produced (everytime Charlie thinks her heated thoughts, her fists curl and her hair blows from a mysterious wind.)

Although not high drama, this flick is entertaining, and has a few spine-tingling, toe-curling, edge of your seat moments.

Citizenship awards to local winners

The awarding of plaques and certificates to winners in the Annual Citizenship Essay Contest was held recently at Northeast Metropolitan Regional Vocational School in Wakefield.

The complete list of winners in this year's contest is as follows: 1st place, Scott Giller of Malden; 2nd place, Karen Saulnier of Saugus; 3rd place, Brenda Telesky of Chelsea; 4th place, Deana Croce of Revere. Honorable Mention: Kathleen Kehoe and Walter Sullivan of Malden; Linda Shea and Mark Backstrom of Saugus; Marzena Galazka and Paul Ryder of Chelsea; Lori Langlois and Robin Martocchio of Revere; Thomas Hegarty and Susan Crocker of Stoneham; Pamela Boyle of Woburn; John Crosby of Winthrop; Kerry McLaughlin of Wakefield; Michelle Stephens of Melrose; Stephen LeBlanc of Reading; and Daniel Hughes of Winchester.

The winners were awarded plaques and certificates by Jack Williams of WBZ-TV Eyewitness News, before an assembly of some 700 students and faculty, including parents of the winners.

Northeast Superintendent-Director, Thomas F. Markham, Jr. welcomed the distinguished guest presenter and parents, and added his congratulations to the winners and the more than 370 student contestants.

This is the tenth year the contest has been conducted by the Northeast Social Studies Department. John X. Crowley, who heads the department, noted that students are encouraged to draw parallels in areas of responsibility to school, community, state and country.

As a result of student-contestants pointing out their responsibility for public poverty, according to Crowley, there has been an increased awareness and marked decrease in vandalism among Northeast students.

June 2-7th Tall Ships sail to Boston

New England Historic Seaport, which brought the Tall Ships to Massachusetts for the "Bicentennial" in 1976, and again in 1980 for "Boston 350", will host the Donald McKay Festival of Tall Ships, June 2-7, 1984. Six or more Class A sailing ships, plus 50 to 60 Class B vessels, are expected to participate, assuring that this event will be as spectacular as OP SAIL '80. Parades, fireworks over Boston Harbor, and the always popular tours of the Tall Ships — plus an international trade exhibition — will round out a splendid celebration of Massachusetts' maritime heritage. The Festival will close with a thrilling Tall Ships race from Boston to Halifax, N.S., the first Donald McKay Race. Donald McKay built some of the most famous, and fastest, clipper ships in his East Boston yard during the mid 19th century. His designs were unexcelled.

New England Historic Seaport is bringing the Tall Ships back, to focus attention on the construction of the 125 foot sailing school ship, "Spirit of Massachusetts", and the sail training, and maritime heritage education, programs that it conducts for Massachusetts' young people. The "Spirit" is now under construction near the Seaport's offices in the Charlestown Navy Yard. When launched, in the spring of 1984, the "Spirit" will conduct sail training cruises during the summer months. During winter months, she will sail to ports in the United States, the Caribbean, and Latin America, acting as an ambassador of good will for Massachusetts and her businesses and institutions. The "Spirit" is being constructed with authentic 19th century techniques, and is a fascinating experience for adults and young people alike. The Historic Seaport is offering tours for school children, in cooperation with the USS Constitution ("Old Ironsides") Museum, which is also located in the Charlestown Navy Yard.

In order to launch the "Spirit of Massachusetts" in time to greet the Tall Ships next June, the Historic Seaport is working with organizations and individuals throughout the State in an effort to raise $600,000 which is critical to completing construction on time. For information about ways in which you can help, please contact Allan MacGregor, New England Historic Seaport, Bldg. 10, Charlestown Navy Yard, Boston, Ma. 02129. Telephone (617) 242-1414.

Rights of Animals lecture

Peter Singer, philosopher, author and founder of the modern animal rights movement, will address a Boston audience on May 27 as part of a three-city tour sponsored by the New England Anti-Vivisection Society and the Farm Animal Reform Movement. The lecture will follow a screening of the documentary "The Animals Film," an expose of the abuses which animals suffer in laboratories, public pounds, on farms, and in the wild.

The animal rights afternoon will take place at the Park Plaza Hotel in Boston's Park Square 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Sunday, May 27. Reservations may be made by calling (617) 523-6020. The price for the event, including a reception honoring Singer, is $15. Individual events may be attended at the cost of $5 each (film, lecture, or reception).

Peter Singer is a professor of philosophy at Australia's Monash University. His book "Animal Liberation," published in 1975, shocked its readers with a look at the realities of the processes by which animal products are produced for everyday consumption. Singer's compelling work forced readers to face the moral and ethical implications of the consumption of these animal products. The book is widely credited with the reawakening of the American consciousness to the unjustifiable nature of the abuses of animals perpetrated by scientists, industries, and sportsmen, and the rise of the modern, organized animal rights movement in the U.S. His more recent book "Animal Factories" (written by Jim Mason) documents animal abuse and other destructive practices which occur as a result of current animal agriculture.

"The Animals Film" is a powerful testimonial to the horrors of animal abuse. It is narrated by actress Julie Christie, with a musical score by Robert Wyatt, and has a running time of two hours and 15 minutes. As a professional and comprehensive treatment of a highly controversial subject, the film has won acclaim. A critic for the London Sunday Times said, "I do not know when I have been so moved by the power of the cinema as a medium to transform the entire sensibility of an audience."

The New England Anti-Vivisection Society, cosponsor of the animal rights afternoon, is dedicated to ending the suffering of the more than 70 million animals used in U.S. laboratories. The Society is headquartered in
